Profile

Victoria is a highly skilled clinician who is passionate about case management. She has extensive experience of working in a variety of NHS and private health settings which has given her the skills to understand and deliver high standards of holistic care that is focused on the individual's unique needs.

Victoria holds 10 years' experience working in neurological rehabilitation. She has an in-depth understanding of the impact of neurological injury on an individual, their families and friends. Victoria understands the importance of maximising the clients rehabilitation and care outcomes right from the beginning of their journey.

Victoria is a strong advocate for person-centred care, supporting and empowering her clients to achieve their goals and aspirations in all aspects of their lives. She is a skilled and sensitive communicator who is able to bring together multi-professional teams to coordinate skills and knowledge to enable safe, effective, and well evidenced care and rehabilitation provision. Victoria has a thorough understanding of CQC regulatory requirements.

Victoria has been recognised for her understanding yet professional approach to leadership and management. She writes thorough and detailed reports and has a comprehensive knowledge of the litigation process.

Testimonial

"It is truly rare to find someone that understands brain injury and its implications like Victoria. She is a wonderful advocate and a great support to her clients, lifting some of the burden off of their families to make life that little bit easier." – Client and his wife
