Profile

Eliot has worked as a case manager since May 2006, primarily with brain injury survivors, but also with people with spinal cord injuries, complex orthopaedic injuries, and birth injuries. Eliot is compassionate, creative, and effective working in a client-centred way to support clients to progress their goals, small and large. He has established and managed many care and rehabilitation teams.

Eliot is particularly experienced in working with adults and young people who have sustained traumatic brain injuries including individuals who challenge services due to the consequences of their injuries. He has maintained long standing, solid working relationships with clients, their family members, support workers, treating professionals, and legal teams.

Eliot understands the litigation process and is skilled at preparing witness statements. He has attended court as a witness of fact related to personal injury litigation.

Prior to working as case manager Eliot worked as an occupational therapist in the NHS and Social Services. He worked with people with learning disabilities (as part of a community learning disability team), in neurorehabilitation at Southampton General Hospital, and for Social Services assessing for assistive equipment and housing adaptations.

Testimonials

"Eliot was appointed as my husband's case manager, and he has played a pivotal and important role in providing help, guidance and support to both my husband and myself. He has a great sense of humour, whilst at the same time, he is always professional, showing empathy and sensitivity when needed. He has helped me immensely with recruiting and managing our care team as well as supporting me with staff supervision, appraisals, and other administrative tasks. He has always been a willing and knowledgeable source of help in managing my husband's rehabilitation from a brain injury by putting us in touch with specialists or by suggesting relevant training or equipment." - Client's Wife
